

Center For Advancing Research In Transportation Emissions, Energy, and Health

A USDOT University Transportation Center

The Road to a Healthy Environment: Transportation Research, Planning and Public Health

SEMINAR

SPEAKER

Thomas A. Burke, PhD, MPH

Jacob I. and Irene B. Fabrikant Professor and Chair in Health Risk and Society Department of Health Policy and Management, Johns Hopkins University Bloomberg School of Public Health
Director – Johns Hopkins Risk Sciences and Public Policy Institute

Dr. Burke was the Science Advisor and Deputy Assistant Administrator for Research and Development at the US EPA during the Obama Administration. His research interests include environmental epidemiology, assessment and communication of environmental risks, and application of epidemiology and health risk assessment to public policy. Dr. Burke received his BS from St. Peter's College, his MPH from the University of Texas and his PhD in epidemiology from the University of Pennsylvania.

SEMINAR DETAILS

Date: Wednesday, April 25, 2018

Time: 12:10 PM – 1: 20 PM (Eastern)

Location: Bloomberg School of Public Health
624 N. Broadway, Hampton House, Room 250
(Webcast available for remote attendees)

RSVP

To register for access to the webcast, please RSVP to Mary Fox at mfox9@jhu.edu carteet.org